

Hopkinsville Kentuckian.

CHAS. M. MEACHAM, Editor.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 17, 1890.

A heavy vote is being registered in Montana.

A company at Owensboro began boring for natural gas Saturday.

Ex-Mayor P. Booker Reed is again a candidate for Mayor of Louisville.

The New Jersey Democrats have unanimously renominated Leon Abbott for Governor.

The London strikes have ended, the demands of the workmen having been agreed to.

Jas. Matz, an Italian fell on live electric light wires in New York City and was instantly killed.

Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, unveiled a statue of Gen. Grant, Saturday, with imposing ceremonies.

Twenty-five members of the late lamented Greenback party held a National Convention in Cincinnati last week.

Constitutional conventions are in session in Wyoming and New Mexico. They are getting impatient to get into the Union.

Ken Chapeze, a prominent lawyer of Morganfield, fell dead while addressing a jury at that place Saturday. Heart disease was the cause.

Tanner's successor has not yet been appointed. The President is having trouble to find a Republican who is not a treasury-raider.

Tanner is very sore over being fired. It is claimed for him that he was only carrying out instructions to "be liberal with the boys."

Tanner was not discharged for his pension raids on the treasury, but for shooting off his mouth too much and violating the eleventh commandment—thou shalt not get ketchup.

Henry S. Ives, the whilom "Napoleon of Finance," is now on trial in New York for crookedness and the San has complicated his other troubles greatly by charging him with forgery on a large scale.

Riddleberger is stumping Virginia against Mahone and proposes to make it exceedingly lively for that individual. Riddleberger's return to the Democratic side is explained by the fact that he is sober this summer.

The disastrous storms on the Atlantic coast, after lasting five days, abated Friday. Scores of lives were lost, and many vessels were destroyed and others are still missing. The storms were the most destructive for years.

The Colored Baptists in session at Indianapolis adopted incendiary resolutions advising the colored people of the South to arm themselves and use their weapons upon the slightest provocation. This advice is not only unchristian like, but will be very dangerous for those who act upon it.

Warren County Democrats propose to rid themselves of too much electioneering in the busy season by having early nominations, and primaries will be held on the 28th to put out a county ticket for next August. This is not a bad idea, as it will enable the defeated candidates to prepare for their crops or make business arrangements as usual next year.

The Catlettsburg Democrat, published away up in the extreme northeastern corner of the state, comes out for Capt. W. J. Stone for Governor and John S. Rhea for Attorney General and favors a combination between western and eastern Kentucky to keep the offices from going in a body to the Bluegrass country. Shake, Brother Maroon, on this proposition.

John L. Sullivan announces himself a candidate for Congress next year and will begin his political career by running for councilman in ward 19, Boston, this fall. In his earnest impetuosity to enter politics, he seems to have lost sight of the fact that he has already been elected to a one-year term in Mississippi. If elected, he might have to resign other offices on account of his previous engagements in the South.

Victoria C. Woodhull and her sister, Miss Tenuis C. Woodhull, formerly conspicuous in this country as female suffrage opposites, went to England some years ago and married "barbaric Brits." They are now sending out circulars announcing their intention to return to America to run Mrs. Woodhull-Martin for President in 1893. As there will be no Presidential election in this country in 1893, Vic. must be developing into a practical joker in her old age.

Sixty state troops from Lexington and Harrodsburg reached Pineville Saturday and marched on foot 30 miles to Harlan county, where they have been ordered to suppress lawlessness. This begins to look more like war than anything the boys have encountered so far. It is altogether different from dress parades and summer resort encampments. If the two companies in Harlan should survive mountain bullets and the hardships of active service, they will be veterans upon their return.

THE O. V. AGAIN.

What Col. Cole says About its Intentions—Clarksville's Proposition.

The following extracts are from the Clarksville Progress on the O. V. proposition:

"Col. E. W. Cole, Attorney for the Ohio Valley railroad, is here for the purpose of conferring with prominent citizens in regard to the proposition for a subscription of $135,000 from Clarksville and Montgomery county towards extending the road through from Princeton to Nashville. The question is now fairly before our people, and it is for the public to say whether or not they want this road and are willing to do anything towards building it, and if so, what plan or what steps will be taken to raise the money. Our opinion is that there is no danger of getting too many roads. In fact, Clarksville is a finished town without more outlets. He says it is the fixed purpose of the O. V. Company to go through that the citizens of Nashville will not hold in earnest and Nashville will undoubtedly raise her part of the subscription, nor is there any doubt about Cheatham county. And the question is what will Clarksville do? With this assistance asked for in this proposition, the Company has money enough to put the road through without delay and no part of the money is to be paid until the road is completed. He says the object is to take in Hopkinsville on the line, and also to reach the iron banks.

From what we gathered from Col. Cole it seems that the object is to run from Princeton to Hopkinsville, and from there by Lafayette to Clarksville, and build a branch from Lafayette to the ore banks. However, the question is up for action, what will Clarksville and Montgomery county do about the proposition? Shall we undertake to raise the subscription and how, is the question?"

CROFTON.

Child Killed—Arm Broken—Boring for Gas—Fine Calf—Personal Items.

CROFTON, Sept. 15—Rev. L. W. Browder is conducting a protracted meeting at the M. E. Church this week.

Dick Keyes' little five-year-old son fell from Geo. Grant's wagon Tuesday, while it was in motion, fracturing his left arm.

Little Jimmie, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Ratliff, was run over Monday, Sept. 9, by a wagon, inflicting injuries to the brain from which he died Wednesday night, Sept. 11. To the family we tender our condolences.

The Saus Lick Oil and Gas Company began work last Wednesday on Gatlin Dunning's farm one and a half miles west of here. Oil and gas have already been found, but not in paying quantities.

M. V. Dulin has just received a fine thoroughbred short horn male calf, which he purchased of Mr. Itasca, of Bowling Green, Ky. The calf is less than eight months old and weighs 600 lbs. Mr. Dulin visited several herds of short horns in this county before going to Bowling Green, but failed to find as fine a calf as he wanted.

Mrs. J. B. Jackson, Prof. C. B. Pittman and Frank Prouse went to Louisville yesterday to witness "The Last Days of Pompeii."

Miss Smith, of Clarksville, Tenn., who has been visiting friends and relatives here for several weeks, returned home yesterday and a certain young man in our town now has a Tennessee look.

Mr. W. F. Randle, of your city, has been working among our citizens for a few days trying to organize a lodge of Knights of Honor. The order is well known among our people and to those who want to lay up something for their families will find it very cheap insurance and we hope may meet with success.

Mrs. G. W. Hancock, of Morton's Gap, is visiting friends here this week.

THE FIFTH AVENUE.

Speaking of hotels and their accommodations, etc., reminds us of the Fifth Avenue, Louisville, which, under the present management, that of Capt. James T. Richie, the proprietor, is taking the lead among the hotels of that city. This popular house is situated only a short distance from the State and Federal Courts and is convenient to all the principal places of amusement. It has been newly fitted up and its accommodations are now first-class in every particular. The fare is simply excellent, consisting of every variety of the market affords and served in such a manner that it not only appeases the appetite of the well, but tempts even the sick. For cleanliness and comfort this popular hotel is not surpassed, everything having strictly a homelike appearance. Indeed so inviting that after a stop of a few days one feels loth to leave for other larger cities. The price is only $2 per day, and really it seems to us to be fully equal, if not superior, to many of the $3 and $4 houses. If you would wish to have a season of enjoyment while sojourning in Louisville at any time, stop at the Fifth Avenue and you will not be disappointed.

THE CRAFT.

The Madisonville Hustler has changed from a quarto to an octavo form.

Editor Dains, of the Barbourville News, makes this interesting allusion to his recent wedding: "The wedding was very quiet and informal, though a most enjoyable affair. The bride is one of the most charming ladies that it has ever been our fortune to meet."

The Louisville Evening Post was sold last week by B. Dupont, the principal stockholder, to a syndicate of ten men in and about Louisville.

W. M. Finley will continue to be the editor and the policy of the paper will not be materially changed.

MISS BEULIE STEVENS, whose genius is rapidly attracting attention, has recently finished life size portraits of Mr. Geo. O. Thompson and Mr. R. G. Rickman; that will add much to her reputation as an artist in crayon work. The pictures are remarkably true to nature, the artist having caught the expression so necessary for making a life-like portrait. They can be seen in Thompson & Meador's show window.

Dunleath Abbey.

The above name will be the title of the new novel from the pen of our townsman, Hanson Penn Dillz, which is now in press, and will be issued in October by G. W. Dunleath, of New York who has one of the largest publishing houses in the United States. The public, and especially the people of Kentucky, to whom the author is well-known, are awaiting the appearance of this new book with no little curiosity and interest for aside from its being the product of a Kentuckian, the publisher is sanguine that it will have a large sale from its merit. The author's former novel, "The Duchess Ludlow," published several years ago by Peterson Bros., of Philadelphia, has had a large sale, which will but add to the popularity of Dunleath Abbey, which will be published in a large handsome cloth volume.

DR. J. C. AYER'S HAIR VIGOR.

With Ayer's Hair Vigor. Its cleanliness, beneficial effects on the scalp, and lasting perfume commend it for universal use. It keeps the hair soft and pliant, preserves its color, prevents it from falling, and if the hair has become weak or thin, promotes a new growth.

"A few years ago I suffered the entire loss of my hair from the effects of tetter. I hoped that after a time nature would repair the loss, but I waited in vain. Many remedies were suggested, none, however, with such proof of merit as Ayer's Hair Vigor, and I began to use it. The result was all I could have desired. A growth of hair soon came out all over my head, and grew to be as soft and heavy as I ever had, and of a natural color, and firmly set."—J. H. Pratt, Bradford, Vt.

"THE BEST IS THE CHEAPEST."

Many people are under the impression that Ivory Soap is expensive, and intended for the use of the wealthy only. The fact is, the price is lower than for ordinary soaps, quality considered, for the "Ivory" no "cheapeners" or "makeweights" are used, so the buyer gets all "true soap" for her money. Its harmlessness, durability and efficiency admit of its being used for all purposes with equal satisfaction and economy in the families of the rich or poor.

A WORD OF WARNING.

There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the Ivory," they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.

The dry weather which was beginning to call forth much complaint from tobacco growers was terminated this week in five days of abundant rains and it is now thought that much damage has been done to that part of the crop which was about ready for the knife, this being especially true of the burley section. The offerings have been large again this week and there are no new developments to report in prices concerning dark tobacco.

Rescued From an Outlaw.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 7.—A Los Angeles special gives an account of the capture yesterday afternoon of Salustio Morales, the outlaw, who has for some time terrorized certain sections of the southern part of this state. Morales was seen to emerge from the brush near the head of Alamo Bay by constable Wilson of Oceanside, and two deputies. They covered him with their rifles as he was stooping to wash his hands in the waters of the bay, and made him their prisoner. Near by in the brush was found the girl, Nymphia Brown, whom Morales abducted from her home about a month ago and who has since accompanied him on his journeys. She refuses to state whether or not she was ever with him. The couple were taken to San Luis Rey, where the girl will be restored to her parents and Morales will be held to answer on the charge of recently murdering the wealthy Henry Charles.

The Pulpit and the Stage.

Rev. F. M. Shront, Pastor United Brethren Church, Blue Mount, Kan., says: "I feel it my duty to tell what wonders Dr. King's New Discovery has done for me. My lungs were badly diseased, and my physicians thought I could live only a few weeks. I took five bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery and am sound and well, gaining 25 lbs. in weight."

Arthur Love, a member of the Puny Folks Combination, writes: "After a thorough trial and convincing evidence, I am confident Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Cough, Croup, and all Cures, everything else fails. The greatest kindness I can do my many thousand friends is to urge them to try it. Free trial bottles at H. B. Garner's Pharmacy Drug Store. Regular sizes 50c. and $1.00."

A High-Toned Fluid.

There must be something about an intimate acquaintance with electricity which produces a different effect from that which comes of other intimacies. It is an old saying, so old that it has long passed unchallenged, that "familiarity breeds contempt." Familiarity with electricity, however, does not breed contempt. On the contrary it engenders a peculiar not to say morbid affection for the subtle fluid and singular sensitiveness on its behalf.

This is shown by the attitude of the electricians on the question of execution by electric snook. According to the New York Sun, instead of regarding with interest this new field of possible usefulness for their pet, the electricians "are outraged that the agency they use should be employed for a purpose so horrible." The lightning man's without any indigity be harnessed in the service of man and compelled to light the darkest and dingiest of his abodes and illuminate the chambers where adulterers and legislators assemble, the gambling resorts and the thieves' resorts. It may shed its rays upon the victim of the murderer so that the latter may see clearly where he strikes. It may carry the most infamous messages between the foes of society, enabling them to rob the public and escape the punishment of their crimes. But it may not on the whole be discredited by rendering any aid to society in exterminating the criminal.

Truly the electrical fluid should be regarded as the most powerful of all the forces of nature, and its application to the service of man should be encouraged. It might make some small return therefore by restraining its exuberant destructiveness in respect to firemen and other employees of the electricians. For the killing of these, be it remembered, though not at all beneath the dignity of an honorable and high-toned electrical fluid, subjects the electrician to inconvenience and occasional loss.

LIKE A DIME NOVEL.

Stanford Journal.

The stabling of her nurse by Mrs. Robert Ray Hamilton, at Atlantic City, has drawn out the secret of a deep, dark plot that was laid for the girl, but not for the young millionaire. It seems that he met the girl under the impression that she was a virtuous and unsophisticated girl and like most young men imagined he had made a powerful conquest when she reluctantly gave herself to his keeping. She knew how rich he was and with an old lover, whom she has since been paying $3,000 a year and about whom the stabling occurred, she entered into a conspiracy to become mistress of his millions. At the proper time she sent for Hamilton and producing a baby, that she had bought for $10, told him it was her child and with tearful entreaties sought him to save her reputation and give the baby's name. He yielded and she has led him a merry dance ever since, not only spending his money like water, but keeping him in hot water by her brazen demeanor towards men. The story reads like a novel, and is another proof of the assertion that facts are stranger than fiction. It also shows what fools these rich men's sons are, who inherit nothing from their sagacious sires but their lustre.

THE INCURABLE CURED.

A Remarkable Statement from a Well-known Citizen of South Carolina.

Cancer is hereditary in my family; an aunt on each side having died from this dreadful disease. In each instance the cancer was located in identical the same position that mine first made its appearance—just below the left eye and extending down the left cheek bone and nose. I was attended by the best physicians, but the case continued to grow worse under their treatment, and no hope of a cure could be given by them; they said I had better have my affairs for the cancer was liable to strike a vital organ at any moment, and at once bleed me to death. About this time, 1886, I met with Mr. Shirley, living near Due West, whose cancer was being rapidly cured by using Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) I then gave up the doctors and all medicines. I had better have my affairs for the cancer was liable to strike a vital organ at any moment, and at once bleed me to death. COLORED DEMOCRATS.—A prominent merchant of New Orleans says that "one thing the Republicans of the North have not yet learned, and that is that it is becoming respectable for a colored man to vote the Democratic ticket in the South. The colored Democrats of Louisiana are the class who own property; men who work steadily; who economize, and are becoming planters themselves in a small way. Every negro who buys a ten-acre farm that day forth has changed his politics, and become a Democrat. From such people the Democratic party has been recruited and largely added in the elections of the South. This is the reason I have mentioned, the negroes begin to see that their interests lie with the white people, and that it is well for them to vote the Democratic ticket in the South. This awakening is making the South prosperous, and the negroes are helping its material life."

During the coming volume The Century is to have an illustrated series of articles on the French Salons of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, including pen portraits of many of the leaders and a detailed account of the organization and composition of several historical salons. A great number of interesting portraits will be given with the series.

SCHOOLS OF PAINTERS.

Valuable Information for Students and Lovers of Art.

From Bell's Edition of Bredow's Tables of Universal History, the following succinct description of the different schools of painting which have flourished is taken. It gives an amount of valuable information in as small a compass as can elsewhere be found. From the Roman School—Style, elevated and bold, seeking rather to be admired than to please; sometimes gigantic; neglects coloring and grace. Roman School—Carries invention and design to the highest perfection by the analytical study of the antique and of nature; heads of the most sublime beauty; coloring and chiaro oscuro less perfect. Venetian School—Faithful imitation of well-chosen subjects of nature, but without any ideal or ideal effect. Lombard and Bolognese Schools—Correggio, born in Lombardy, not having founded a permanent school, but having been imitated by the painters of Bologna, these two schools are conjoined. Correggio's distinguished characteristics are a softening and voluptuous (though somewhat affected) grace in the figures and attitudes, and a magic harmony in his coloring. Flemish or Belgian School—This school excels in coloring and in the faithful imitation of nature, but does not always exhibit sufficient nobleness of design; it produces eminent artists in every style; that is, the Flemish have all the good coloring and a faithful imitation of nature in the minutest details. The style of precious finishing is carried to the highest pitch in this school. German School—This school having never had a common point of union, bears no general and distinctive character; it produces, in the different styles of painting, rival artists to the great masters of Italy and of the Netherlands. English Painters—Formed in general on the masters of the Flemish and Italian schools; excel in portraits and landscapes, are unrivaled in water-colors. French Schools—The good painters of this school are formed on the masters of the different Italian schools, of which they bear the several characteristics; they are in general more successful in composition and design than in coloring. It is emancipated from the degradation and affected style it assumed after the death of Le Brun by Vien, and became the most numerous and flourishing school of art in Christian art.

WIT AND WISDOM.

—It isn't so bad to be disappointed in love as in marriage.

—If a man calls you a fool, don't take him to prove it. He may do it.

—He is truly great that is little in himself, and that maketh no account of any height of honor.

—Some people make a dollar's worth of trouble in accomplishing a dollar's worth of good.—Athenian Oracle.

—Many a man who was expected to set the world on fire only succeeded in getting up a very disagreeable smudge.—Merchant Traveler.

—The human race is divided into two classes—those who go ahead and do things, and those who wait till they are asked to do them.

—All men have their frailties; and whoever looks for a friend without imperfections will never find what he seeks. We love ourselves notwithstanding our faults and we ought to love our friends in like manner.—Cyrus.

—If a man has no quarrelsomeness, let him sleep. He will soon meet with someone stronger than himself, who will repay him better than you can. A man may fight duels all his life if he is disposed to quarrel.—Cecil.

—Infinite toil would not enable you to accomplish a great object, but by ascending a little you may overcome it all together. So it is with moral improvement; we wrestle fiercely with a vicious habit which would have no hold upon us if we ascended into a higher moral atmosphere.—A. Helps.

—In the constitution both of our mind and of our body, every thing must go on right, and no nervous system can be made up of happy. But should one thing go wrong, that is quite enough to make us miserable; and, although the joys of this world are vain and short, yet its sorrows are real and lasting.

—Lives of singleness ease bring discontent. The more we are rocked on the stormy waves and tossed by the winds of adversity, the stronger we grow. Indeed, some natures never develop in the sunshine; like the plant that only blooms at midnight, some souls are matured in beauty only through long hours of darkness.—St. Louis Magazine.

—Results are not to be labored for because they will be valuable, but because they are valuable because they have been labored for. An author finds it hard to throw away sentences that have cost him nights of thoughts and days of labor—even though he sees how the value of his work will be increased by this rejection. The only way to work for a good result, and not to depend upon a result being good simply because it has been worked for.—S. S. Times.

A Lady in South Carolina Writes: My labor was shorter and less painful than on two former occasions; physicians astonished; I thank you for "Mother's Friend." It is worth its weight in gold. Address The Bradford Reg. Co., Atlanta, Ga., for particulars. Sold by all druggists.
